President's Letter

Happy March Members and Friends of the Arts Alliance.

After attending the annual Maryland Arts Day in Annapolis on February 14, I'm happy to report the Arts are alive and very healthy in the State of Maryland.

Our group met with the Charles County lawmakers and new Senator, Arthur Ellis, to let them know your interest in the art programs for Charles County. They not only listened but agreed with the importance of art in every aspect of your lives.

Our scholarship program is in full swing. Let your friends and neighbors know about the availability for students majoring in the arts after high school graduation. The deadline to apply is Friday, March 8! (See page 3 for more details.)

The next big event will be the election and the annual membership meeting scheduled for Saturday, May 11, at the Waldorf West Library. Your invitation will be in the mail in April, but for now mark the calendar so you will not miss this important meeting.

And, plan now to attend ArtsFest on Saturday, June 8. This is the largest arts festival in Charles County and has something for the whole family to enjoy.

As always, thank you for your continued support of the Charles County Arts Alliance and consider volunteering for some of the fun events we have monthly.

Gale S. Kladitis
President

ArtsFest 2019 Registration is OPEN!

Call for Artist, Exhibitor and Food Vendors!

Early Bird Registration Ends April 30

The Charles County Arts Alliance is pleased to announce our 27th annual ArtsFest, to be held on Saturday, June 8, 2019, from 11:00 am - 5:00 pm, on the beautiful grounds of the La Plata Town Hall, in La Plata, Maryland. ArtsFest is the largest arts festival in Charles County, and one of the largest in Southern Maryland. This is our eighth year to present the festival in partnership with the Town of La Plata.

ArtsFest is our annual outdoor celebration of all the arts and artists - visual, literary and performing. It is our "free gift" to the citizens of Charles County and Southern Maryland, and there is no charge for the public to attend. It is a family-friendly, wonderful way to kick off the summer season!

Visual and literary artists of all media are invited to display and sell their works. In addition, nonprofit arts organizations are invited as exhibitors to display information and encourage participation in their performing, visual and literary arts activities. Also invited as nonprofit exhibitors are cultural, historical, heritage and environmental organizations. Local commercial organizations are also invited to distribute information on their products and services, and a variety of great food will be available for purchase throughout the day.

Registration forms are available at <https://charlescountyarts.org/program/artsfest>, or by calling the CCAA office at 301-392-5900, or email at info@charlescountyarts.org.

ArtsFest is sponsored in partnership with the Town of La Plata. Funding for this project was provided (in part) by the County Commissioners of Charles County, Maryland.

The Recommended FY2020 Budget is $1.7 Million More Than Last Year's!

Held in Annapolis on February 14, Maryland Arts Day was a wonderful Valentine for the 560 attendees who joined in the celebration that Maryland now ranks third in the Country for distribution of funds for the Arts! If approved, the Maryland State Arts Council will receive $24.4 million to support the Arts sector -- the largest amount in recent history.

It was an exciting day, too, for the Southern Maryland Delegation! The CCAA was represented by Gale Kladitis, Cindi Barnhart, Addison Likins, Gina Durgin and Judy Crawford. The opening sessions began in the Francis Scott Key Auditorium at St. John's College, with elected officials and First Lady Yumi Hogan greeting the attendees and the presentation of the Sue Hess Award to Julia Di Bussolo. Keynote speaker Stephanie Ybarra encouraged all to "walk it like you talk it." She emphasized the power of the narrative in social change and reminded all that "art is not neutral."

After the initial presentations, all the attendees gathered by region and proceeded to walk to the House Office Building for visits with their legislators. Armed with special gift bags, the CCAA set off to meet with the Charles County representatives. By special appointment, the CCAA met with Senator Arthur Ellis in his office suite, and viewed first-hand the art provided by Addison Likins. The next visits included a stop by Edith Patterson's office, and a fortunate meeting with Debra Davis outside the building while she was on her way to another meeting.

See the photos on the following pages for more on what's happening in Maryland Arts!

The 2019 Sue Hess Maryland Arts Advocate of the Year and the Keynote Speaker

JULIA DI BUSSOLO
Executive Director, Arts Every Day
2019 Sue Hess Maryland Arts
Advocate of the Year

As executive director of Arts Every Day and as a Baltimore City parent, Julia serves as a leading voice of arts education advocacy. Arts Every Day strengthens learning by making the arts an integral part of classroom instruction for all students in Baltimore City Public Schools. The organization provides over $300,000 in support and annual funding for student art experiences, staff development, and program support. As a leader, she seeks out strategic partnerships and organizes several annual events to celebrate and elevate Baltimore City students as artists, musicians and performers. Working in conjunction with the city school district, Julia successfully secured a $50,000 Collective Impact grant from the National Endowment of the Arts in 2017. Under her leadership, inspiration, and direction the grant funded the launch of the Baltimore Education Arts Initiative; a community/district partnership to develop and implement a strategic plan to ensure every student in Baltimore City receives arts education. With Julia's leadership and guidance over 100 educators, advocates, arts partners, parents, students, district, and city leaders, helped to create a comprehensive Arts Education Strategic Plan and measurable implementation goals. The plan has been incorporated into the district's Blueprint for Success and a five-year implementation plan is underway. Powered by the efforts of district partners, educators, community members, artists, and organizations, the initiative seeks to shift budget and operating policy to ensure all Baltimore City students have access to art, music, dance, theatre, and media arts education every year.

STEPHANIE YBARRA

Baltimore Center Stage
Keynote Speaker

Stephanie Ybarra is in her first season as Artistic Director for Baltimore Center Stage and brings to her new home twenty years of experience at theaters of all sizes across the United States. Most recently, she served as Director of Special Artistic Projects at The Public Theater in New York, where she led the Mobile Unit and Public Forum programs. Additionally, Stephanie is in her fourth year as Producer's Lab Liaison for Women's Project Theater, of which she is an alum; and she just concluded her role as both Curator and Casting Director for Two River Theater's Crossing Borders Festival of Latinx plays. Her career started in her home state of Texas, working with Dallas Theater Center and Dallas Children's Theater. She then spent time as the Deputy Director of Program Operations for Citizen Schools in Boston. Rounding out her East Coast travels, Stephanie served as Interim General Manager of Two River Theater Company and Associate Managing Director of New Play Development for Yale University. Ultimately, Stephanie landed in NYC, where she made her artistic producing debut with the original production of Tarell Alvin McCraney's The Brothers Size, for which she received the inaugural Producer's Chair Award from the Foundry Theater. She went on to serve as the first Producing Director for Playwrights Realm and Producing Artistic Director for the Cherry Lane Theater's Mentor Project. Stephanie often guest lectures for artists and producing students at Julliard, NYU, and Yale School of Drama.
